Learning outcomes for the activity: It's clear the world needs more innovation and more entrepreneurs. So how can we nurture that next generation of doers and dreamers? Students have understood the concept of idea, invention, innovation, creativity, startup/entrepreneurs stories and skills they need to start their own businesses.

How will it be used for students/school/universities: Entrepreneurship teaches children to always have a long-term outlook - then break big goals down into smaller, more manageable goals. If children are taught entrepreneurial skills at an early age, they will be able to master difficult subject matters much more quickly. Entrepreneurship teaches children they need to provide value to get something of value in return
